

SIEMENS

Our STEP (Siemens Technical Education Program) web site offers quickSTEP online courses on the Courses page, a downloadable Glossary, and STEP training books in pdf format on the Downloads page.

Depending on the certifying organization, these courses may be eligible for professional development hour (PDH) credit. Please check your organization's requirements for additional information.

Each quickSTEP online course has a final exam. Participants who score 70% or better on a final exam can print a course completion certificate from the web site. Access a final exam by paging through the course until you encounter the final exam or by clicking on the Final Exam link on the navigation bar within a course and follow the procedure described below.

Before taking the final exam, delete the temporary files from your browser. For most versions of Internet Explorer, this can be done by selecting Internet Options from the Tools menu and clicking on Delete Files. After you submit an exam for grading, if you pass the exam, you will be given two options for printing a course completion certificate. You can print your certificate without saving your score in our database or you can click the Save Score option which allows you to save your score in our database and print your certificate.
